Tuesday 5th May 2020

WALT – order a well known story

Here is a story map for 'Jack and the Beanstalk'

The script is next to it.

1. Can you match the pictures to each part of the story.

2. Can you come up with actions for each part.

Read through the script using your actions until you can do it nearly off by heart.

Once upon a time there lived a boy called Jack. He lived with his mother. They had no money or food so one day Jack's mother said "Jack take our cow to the market to sell her for money".

Jack went to the market and came across a man who bought Jack and his mother's cow for some magic beans! Jack was very happy with himself unfortunately when he got home his mother was furious! She threw the beans out of the window. Now they had no money, no food and no cow.

Overnight a colossal beanstalk grew in their garden. In the morning Jack woke up and looked out of his window. He saw the beanstalk and decided to climb all the way to the top.

When he reached the top he saw a huge castle and went inside. He saw a giant sitting at a table. The giant had a hen which laid golden eggs!

The giant got out a harp which played him to sleep. Jack took the opportunity to steal the hen and the harp but as he was running out of the door the harp made a loud noise.

"FE FI FO FUM I smell the blood of an English man!" the giant started to chase after Jack. He ran down the beanstalk. Luckily at the bottom of the beanstalk Jack's mother quickly chopped the beanstalk down and the giant was never seen again

Jack and his mother lived happily ever after with the hen and the harp making them money for food.

Once upon a time there lived a boy called Jack. He lived with his mother. They had no money or food so one day Jack's mother said "Jack take our cow to the market to sell her for money".

Jack went to the market and came across a man who bought Jack and his mother's cow for some magic beans! Jack was very happy with himself unfortunately when he got home his mother was furious! She threw the beans out of the window. Now they had no money, no food and no cow.

Overnight a colossal beanstalk grew in their garden. In the morning Jack woke up and looked out of his window. He saw the beanstalk and decided to climb all the way to the top.

When he reached the top he saw a huge castle and went inside. He saw a giant sitting at a table. The giant had a hen which laid golden eggs!

The giant got out a harp which played him to sleep. Jack took the opportunity to steal the hen and the harp but as he was running out of the door the harp made a loud noise.

"FE FI FO FUM I smell the blood of an English man!" the giant started to chase after Jack. He ran down the beanstalk. Luckily at the bottom of the beanstalk Jack's mother quickly chopped the beanstalk down and the giant was never seen again.

Jack and his mother lived happily ever after with the hen and the harp making them money for food.

Using the story map. Can you choose 8 of the main events and draw them in the table (response).

Challenge: Can you write a sentence telling me what is happening in each one. E.g...