

Circle the Determiners

Circle all the determiners in the sentences below.

She doesn't have any money left.

I want all of those chocolates.

There are several options.

You need to do it this morning.

Amanda could choose either.

He needed some change.

Their train rolled into the station.

Do you have a book I could borrow?

I have a friend who lives in China.

The thief has not been caught yet.

Malaki ordered two drinks.

Clouds floated across the blue sky.

Circle the Determiners

Circle all the determiners in the sentences below.

She doesn't have any money left.

I want all of those chocolates.

There are several options.

You need to do it this morning.

Amanda could choose either.

He needed some change.

Their train rolled into the station.

Do you have a book I could borrow?

I have a friend who lives in China.

The thief has not been caught yet.

Malaki ordered two drinks.

Clouds floated across the blue sky.

Circle the Determiners

Circle all the determiners in the sentences below.

Have you seen my pencil?

Freda was born on a Friday.

Victoria is training to be a pilot.

I have two sisters.

That job will be easier.

Those people were here first.

The boy ate three lollipops.

That is a shame!

We didn't have any milk left.

There are enough plates for us.

Did she find my shoes?

The man walked on to the platform.

Circle the Determiners

Circle all the determiners in the sentences below.

Have you seen my pencil?	Freda was born on a Friday.	Victoria is training to be a pilot.
I have two sisters.	That job will be easier.	Those people were here first.
The boy ate three lollipops.	That is a shame!	We didn't have any milk left.
There are enough plates for us.	Did she find my shoes?	The man walked on to the platform.

Circle the Determiners

Circle all the determiners in the sentences below.

She had an ice-cream and a lemonade.

My arm hurts today.

Bring your friends with you.

Will you play that game with me?

She ate four cupcakes.

Is that notebook yours?

It is a beautiful day!

The lady rode on the palomino.

We need another chair.

Any girl would want to marry that boy.

I do not want either.

That icing is for my cake.

Circle the Determiners

Circle all the determiners in the sentences below.

She had an ice-cream and a lemonade.

My arm hurts today.

Bring your friends with you.

Will you play that game with me?

She ate four cupcakes.

Is that notebook yours?

It is a beautiful day!

The lady rode on the palomino.

We need another chair.

Any girl would want to marry that boy.

I do not want either.

That icing is for my cake.